The Green Vaults of Dresden.

The royal palace of Dresden is the most ungainly pile of heavy architecture in Europe. Yet it has great attractions to the lovers of art in the frescoes in the throne room by Bendemann, and in the ball room are some very fine paintings, the subjects principally from the mythology and lives of the ancient Greeks .-On the ground floor is a range of apartments called the Greek Vaults, from the color of the hangings with which the chambers were originally decorated. In these green vaults are such treasures of wealth, that one feels in walking through them as if he only possessed the ring of Aladdin, and some slight mischance might cause the magnificent sight to be instantly dispelled. Before the discovery of America the Freiberg silver mines were the source of the great wealth of the Saxon Princes. Although the Saxon King is the poorest in Europe, in the very walls of his palace are treasures and costly objects more gorgeous and dazzling that any other monarch possesses, handed down from reign to reign, since the time of Augustus the Strong, in 1724. There are exquisite carvings in the precious metals.-

England, in the character of St. George cut out of a piece of solid cast iron. In this same room are bronzes of rare workmanship, one acrucifix by John of Bologna. In the Ivory room are several pieces of wonderful carving. One is a cup, carved out of a single piece of ivory only sixteen inches high, on which are one hundred and forty-two figures, illustrating the story of the Foolish Virgins, the fall of Lucifer, and the wicked angels. Each face is a distinct portrait, and it is said to have taken several years to accomplish the work. In the third room are Florentine mosaics, objects in amber, paintings in enamel, and engraved shells, and ostrich eggs carved and ornar ented with jewels and rare gilding. In the fourth room are the gold and silver plate that adorned the banqueting tables of the Saxon palace in olden times. Each goblet and dish is a wonder of costliness and ingenious art. The fifth room glitters with vessels formed of the half precious stones. Lapis-lazuli, chalcedony, agates, and rock-crystal, as well as two goblets caricature figures of men and animals made of single pearls are found in the sixth room.-The largest pearl in the world, a pearl the size of a hen's egg, cut into the famous court dwart of the King of Spain, is one of these royal toys. In the seventh are the suits of armor, studded with diamonds and gems of every description, some of the regalia being literally made of diamonds, rubies, emeralds, sapphires, and pearls. In the last and eighth apartment are treasures that years of labor and mines of wealth furnished the most splendid gifts for kings and princes. One trinket cost $58,400, and employed an artist eight years in making it.—Phil. Bulletin

ANECDOTE OF HUME. - An amusing anecdote is told of Dr. Robertson, Scotland, who with a ready wit, drew an illustration from a misfortune of David Hume, to point an argument. It was as follows:

The celebrated Mr. Hume wrote an essay on the sufficiency of nature; and the no less celebrated Dr. Robertson, on the necessity of revelation, and the insufficiency of the light of nature. Hume came one evening to visit Robertson and the evening was spent on the subject. The friends of both were present, and it is said that Robertson reasoned with accustomed clearness and power. Whether Hume was cenvinced by his reasoning or not we cannot tell, but at any rate he did not acknowledge his convictions. Hume was very much of a gentleman, and as he arose to depart bowed politely to those in the room, while, as he retired through the door, Robertson took the light to show him the way.
"O, sir," he said. "I find the light of nature always sufficient," as he bowed on. The street door was open, and presently, as he bowed along the entry, he stumbled over something concealed, and pitched down stairs into the street. Robertson ran after him with a candle, and, as he held it over him, whispered softly and cumningly. "You had better have a little light from above, Friend Hume," and raising him up, he bade him good-night and returned to his

There was a rule among the Scotch judges and the senior members of the bar, when on circuit, that they only had the privilege of drinking claret; the juniors were limited to sherry and port. The circuit was at Ayr, and Brougham happened to sit just under the salt. The claret came down to him, and then Brougham filled his glass. This had been observed by the president. "Do you see," said his Lordship to his friends on the right and left, "that young, impudent fellow Brougham helping himself to claret? If he tries it again Ill speak to him." Round came the claret, and Brougham, as usual, filled a bumper. "Maister Brougham," exclaimed his Lord-ship, ore rotundo, "that's claret!" "I know it is, my Lord, and excellent," was the reply.

A political philosopher in Boston is trying to arouse a public sentiment in favor of the extension of the right of suffrage to native-born young men between the ages of eighteen and twenty-one. He takes the ground that young men of this class are called on to do men's duties in war times, and are otherwise treated as men, and therefore are entitled to the full privileges of men. There is to be a mass meeting of those who favor these ideas in Fancuil Hall. Under the recent act of Congress there are 7,040 internal revenue offices created, and over 4, 000 yet to fill, among which are 25 supervisors. The law gives the Commissioner of internal revenue, probably, more patronage than any other officer in the government. The New York Post has a letter from a Louisiana radical, who relates that the radicals are "quarrelling among themselves and making no preparations for the election, and that the democrats are industriously securing the some and cheap, at 65, Ring street.

YOUNG MEN, Especially, who have become the victims of solitary vice, that dreadful and destructive habit which annually sweeps to an ultimely grave thousands of Young Men of the most excellent talents and brilliant intellect, who might otherwise have entranced listening Senstors with the thunders of eloquence, or waked to estacy the living lyre, may call with full

He who places himself under the care of Dr J. may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and confidently rely upon his skill as a physician.

ORGANIC WEAKNESS Immediately cured and full vigor restored. This distressing affection, which renders life miserable and marriage impossible, is the penalty paid by the victims of impropriety .-Young persons are too apt to commit excesses from not being aware of the dreadful consequences that may ensue. Now, who that understands the subject will pretend to deny that the power of procreation is lost sooner by those falling into improper habits than by the prudent? Besides being deprived of the pleasure of healthy offspring, the most serious and destructive symptoms of both body and mind arise. The System becomes deranged, the Physical and Mental Functions Weakened, Loss of Procreative Power, Nervous Irritabili ty, Dyspepsia, Palpitation of the Heart, Indi-gestion, Constitutional Debility, and Wasting of the Frame, Consumption, Decay and Death DR. JOHNSON, Member of the Royal College of Surgeons London, Graduate of one of the most eminent part of whose life has been spent in the hospit als of London, Paris, Philadelphia, and elsewhere, has effected some of the most astonish ing cures that were ever known, many trouble. with ringing in the head and ears when asleep great nervousness, being alarmed at sudden sounds, bashfulness, with frequent blushing, attended sometimes with derangement of wind were cured immediately. TAKE PARTICULAR NOTICE. Dr. J. addresses all those who have injured themselves by improper indulgence and solitary habits, which ruin both body and mind unfitting them for either business, study, social ty or marriage.

These are some of the sad and melanchors effects produced by early habits of youth, viz. Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in t... Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Norvous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Debility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c.

MENTALLY .- The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded. Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, Evil Forebodings, Averson to Society, Self Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced: Thousands of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health, losing their vigor, becoming weak, pale, ner-vous and emaciated, having a singular appear ance about the eyes, Cough, and Symptoms of Consumption. YOUNG MEN, Who have injured themselves by a cer tain practice, indulged in, a habit frequently learned from evil companions, or at school, the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and, if not cured, renders marriage impossible, and destroys both minand body, should apply immediately. What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, the pride of his parents, should be snatched from all prespects and enjoyments of life by the consequence of deviating from the path of nature, and indulging in a certain seeret habit. Such persons must, before contem-
